ALASKA-YUKON EXPOSITION IS OPENED TO THE WORLD TODAY

TELEGRAPH KEY WITH WHICH PRESIDENT TAFT OPENED ALASKA-YUKON-PACIFIC EXPOSITION TODAY AND GEORGE CARMACK WHO FIRST DISCOVERED GOLD IN ALASKA.

THEN MYSTIC FLASH COMES

Taft Sends Spark, and Stars and Stripes Break From Staff as Great Gates Open

SEATTLE, Wash., June 1.—With the faint impressive words of the invocation delivered by the Right Rev. Bishop Edward O'Dea echoing through the groined arches of towering forest giants, a telegraph key of Alaskan gold, pressed by President Taft in the White house at Washington, flashed an electric spark across the continent, and the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition was formally opened at noon today.

Tense silence brooded over the half million people gathered in and around the natural amphitheater on the Lake Washington shores of the exposition as they waited for the signal that was to open to the public this beautiful show place.

The blue waters of the lake reflected the snow-capped peaks of the far mountains, and high above, the circling sea fowl ceased their shrill cries, as though they even were impressed by the momentous occasion.

Bowed before the words of the white haired prelate were representatives of almost every creed and nationality on the face of the earth. The tapering flagstaffs and graceful domes and minarets offered neither flames nor bunting to the soft breezes.

Stars and Stripes Appear.

Just as the sun touched the northern edge of the circle, the lightning flash released by President Taft connected with the delicate mechanism of the great engines in Machinery Hall and instantly from the dizzy height of 250 feet of Northern fir, a strip of bunting 125 feet in length, proudly bearing the stars and stripes, broke from the mast head in Dome circle.

Then from the brazen throats of hundreds of musical instruments came crashing the inspiring notes of the "Gloria Washington March," and from every staff, dome, minaret and elevated point, flags and bunting were unrolled in countless numbers. The same electric spark opened the shutter of a great camera, and a sensitized plate recorded the features of the waiting throng. Two gigantic steam whistles in the down

PYLEN MAKES THE RESPONSE

Washington Senator Speaks on Behalf of People of Washington at the White House

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 1.—With a key of gold studded with nuggets from the first mine of the Klondike, President Taft in the east-room of the White house at 3 o'clock this afternoon started the wheels of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition at Seattle. After the message had been flashed across the continent and the response received from the far Pacific coast, President Taft, in a brief address voiced the hope that the exposition would be a great success. The fair, he was certain, would be not only one reflecting credit upon the enterprise, push and business foresight of the men who planned and built it but would give to the whole world a more intimate knowledge of the marvelous resources of the great country beyond the Rockies. The development of the vast territory, wonderful as it has been, was but the promise of the prosperity to come.

Piles Makes Response

Senator Piles of Washington made the response on behalf of the exposition and Pacific coast as follows:

"Mr. President and gentlemen: I have been commissioned to tender to the president of the United States the sincere thanks of the people of the Pacific coast for the honor he has done us by touching the electric key which was unfurled the flags and set in motion the machinery of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, which opens in perfect readiness at the time appointed, and which has thus at the outset scored a success not achieved by any other exposition."

"This exposition will give an ocular demonstration of the empire that has grown up in a wilderness in less than seventy-five years. Railroads have tunneled the supposedly impassable mountains. Our commerce is born upon every sea and our products are found in every market of trade. Cities, towns and villages have

Legislative Candidates Can Spend Only $25—Papers Must Publish Owners

MADISON, Wis., June 1.—(Special.)—The senatorial investigating committee today submitted for introduction in the legislature four bills governing the use of money and conduct of candidates in elections. Each of the bills covers a distinct phase, as marking of the ballot, political printing, expenditure of money and conduct of candidates. In the aggregate the bills make the following points:

No money shall be spent in behalf of any candidate excepting by the candidate himself or his manager.

The purpose for which money may be spent is hall rental, printing, clerical help and traveling expenses, and no paid election worker can be used either at the primary or at elections; neither shall money be spent for anything in the way of refreshments by candidates.

The bills fix the specific amount that may be spent by the candidates for each separate office whose occupant is to be voted upon at the primary of general election. The amount that a candidate for United States senator may spend is limited to $500.

No candidate shall accept contributions to his campaign from corporations or from any one outside the state, and all violations of these election rules shall be punishable, not by fines, but by imprisonment for terms ranging from one month to five years.

All newspaper advertising in behalf of candidates shall be labeled as advertising, a marginal note to the advertisement stating the amount of money paid by the candidate for the ad.

All newspapers publishing political editorials must publish on their editorial page a complete list of their stockholders.

All election material, including information for voters and such statements as the candidates care to make about themselves, shall be sent to all voters by the secretary of state. This matter shall be published by the state, the expense being met by contributions from candidates in sums ranging from $100 for congressmen and United States senators to $25 for members of the legislature, and publication of such matter by the state shall be no protection to any candidate against any libel suit growing out of his statements. All party platforms must be filed with the secretary of state on or before Oct. 1st in the year in which the election takes place.

CITY STREET CAR CO. FIRES ASST. Supt. J. H. HERRIER

J. H. Herrier, assistant superintendent of the City Railway company, was discharged this morning. No reason for his dismissal was assigned, but employees of the company declare that, as part of their dissatisfaction was caused by alleged ill treatment by Mr. Herrier, the act of the company is intended to propitiate the dissatisfied workmen.

Herrier will be succeeded as assistant superintendent by Frank Seyewski, a non-union workman who is more popular with the men than his predecessor.

It is expected that Mr. Humphreys, secretary of the state board of arbitrators, will arrive in La Crosse this evening for the purpose of attempting to adjust the difficulties existing here.

MISSISSIPPI LANDSMEN FOILED BY CHOPPY OCEAN WAVES

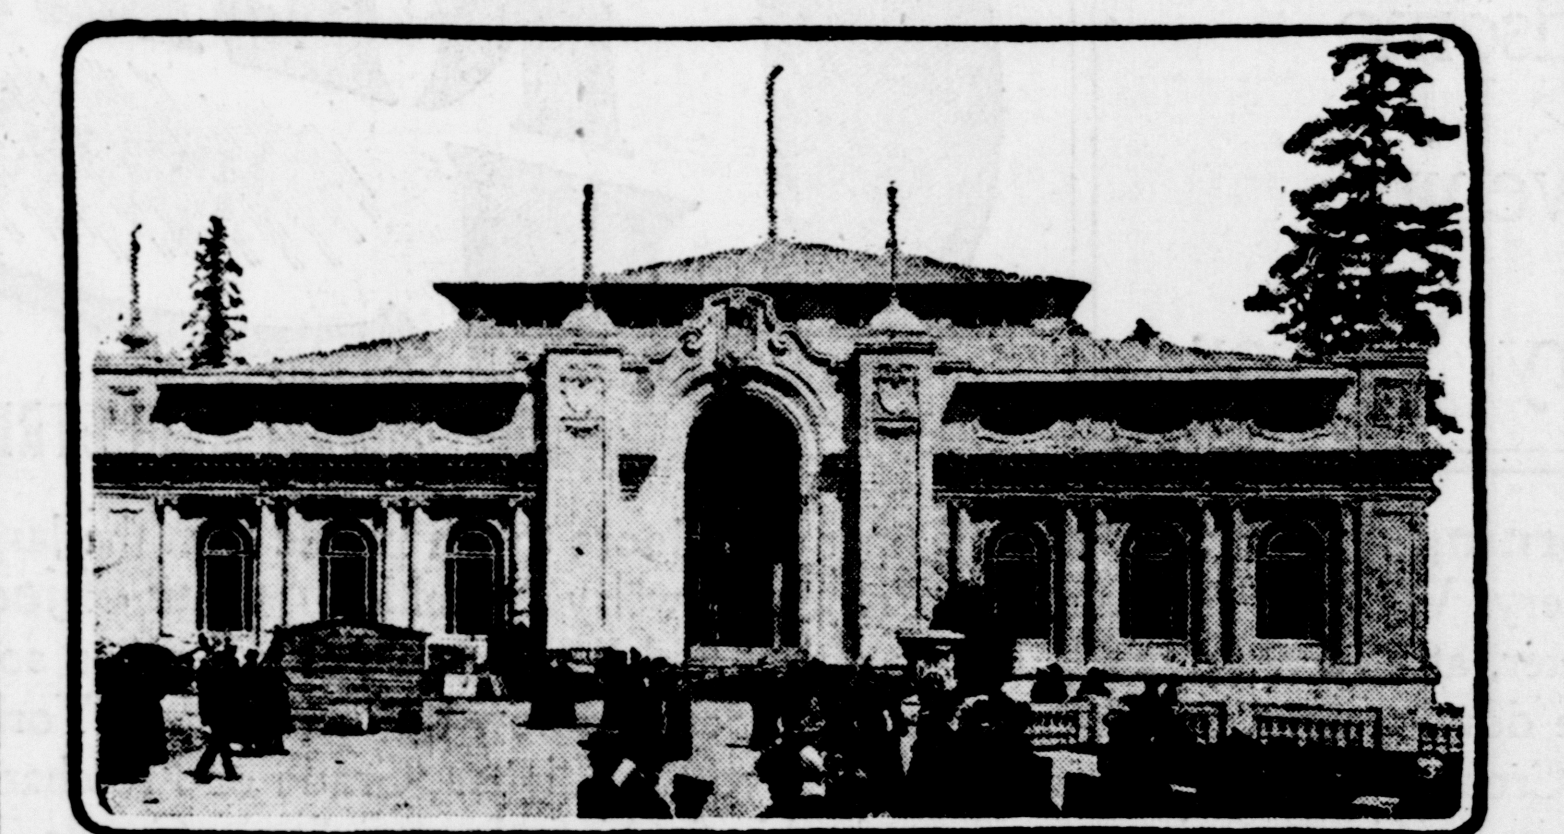

SCRANTON, Miss., June 1.—A heavy wind that lashed the waters of the gulf into short, choppy waves, where the battleship Mississippi rode at anchor off Horn Island today, proved too much for the seals of the landmen orators who were to present the state's silver service to the big fighter. A change of plans was made necessary and the officers and crew of the ship came ashore for the presentation ceremonies so that the orators might not be disturbed.

The presentation ceremonies took place at 10:30. The address was made by Gov. Noel. Lieutenant Commander Miller responded for the battleship and its men.

PASS COMMISSION LAW

MADISON, Wis., June 1.—(Special.)—The Whitehead bill making it optional with cities of the second, third and fourth classes to adopt a commission form of government passed the assembly today, and now goes to the governor for his signature.

Before an audience which completely filled the First Methodist church last evening, Prof. W. Earl Flynn, the Tribune's health specialist, delivered what is being declared by all present the greatest lecture yet delivered in his good health campaign in La Crosse. Prof. Flynn showed the human body is the most wonderful piece of mechanism in the world, and that with proper care and attention it should live to the age of its shortest-lived organ, the kidneys, which is 200 years. The lecture was brimming with facts which illustrated the marvelous operation of the body, and with helpful hints and rules for its care.

Prof. Flynn referred to Dr. Fletcher, the originator of Fletcherism, who on 11 cents worth of proper food per day outstripped the young athletes in a grilling crew training course, to the amazement of the physical director of a big college. Dr. Fletcher, while an old man, felt better at the end of the work than the young fellows and showed no signs of strain. He subsisted upon a prepared cereal, maple sugar and milk, chewed to a liquid. Mr. Flynn told of a case he had handled in San Francisco, in which a prominent money man of that city had been stuffing his falling daughter with seven meals per day in an effort to fill up the hollows and remove the pimples. Prof. Flynn agreed to make her one of the most beautiful women in California and within a very short time she gained forty pounds in weight, her face cleared and at her wedding shortly afterward, the former invalid was declared by the newspapers to be one of the most beautiful girls in the state.

Mr. Flynn said that water did not affect fat or lean people as was generally supposed. He said that fat people needed more water than the lean, but merely to wash out the excess fat which is accumulated by a lack of exercise and sluggish circulation.

Brain Controls Stomach.

It was an old theory of the physiologists, said Mr. Flynn, that digestion began when the foods struck the walls of the stomach. This, he says, has been disproven and it has been established that the mind controls the juices of the stomach. Juices from the mouth are absolutely necessary in the process of digestion and the stomach juices cannot perform the entire work—hence the necessity of chewing the food thoroughly so there will be a liberal flow of saliva. Insalivated food goes into the stomach and there the process of turning it into energy continues. It requires 12 to 18 hours, says Flynn, to digest and assimilate food. This is the reason he says, that the stomach should rest from the evening meal until the next noon. It has not finished turning the evening meal into "steam" when another is crowded upon it, and the morning meal is invariably rotted, he says, by the stomach which takes this means of disposing of something it cannot use. He cites the fact that a sudden fright or passion will instantly stop digestion, thus proving the mind controls digestion. He says this mental derangement and fright following earthquakes and similar disasters is what causes the sickness following among the sufferers; because their digestion becomes deranged, and not because of the lack of food. People should never eat when angry, in fear, or suffering from any passion or mental strain, for it seriously interferes with digestion, and some of the passions turn the food into poison. He admonished his hearers against quarreling at the table, and said good humor should be maintained here especially.

In 'Frisco Quake.

Telling of his experiences in the San Francisco earthquake, where he and his party were caught in the eleventh story of a big hotel, he said the first thing they did after the first shock was to lay in a supply of nuts, raisins, green stuff, peanuts, figs and crackers. The wisdom of this was afterward demonstrated for it was later impossible to procure these foods. Equipped as they were with proper diet his party suffered no illness or inconvenience.

Prof. Flynn dwelt upon the necessity for carbo-hydrates in the body. They are the energy, heat, fat and "steam" producing foods, the starches and sugars and one should eat four times more carbo-hydrates than proteins, which is the muscle builder. These foods should all be chewed thoroughly and mixed in the stomach. The benefit of mixing foods, said Mr. Flynn, is that the carbo-hydrates in the bowels convert the proteins from rotted matter into nutrition. The carbo-hydrates produce a condition in the bowels necessary to the assimilation of the muscle building foods.

Sugar in Place of Water

Prof. Flynn told of a circumstance in the tropics where an American soldier subsisted upon hard tack and loaf sugar, in place of drinking the impure water. He said it was possible to go for a long time without water if loaf sugar was dissolved in the mouth, and recommended this in case of emergency to relieve thirst. Ice water a couple of glasses, taken a couple of hours before meals starts the juices of the stomach and will quicken digestion if one is suffering from sluggish digestion, while hot water before meals will retard the secretion of the juices. Prof. Flynn recommended the drinking of two or three glasses of water (not too cold) two or three hours after a

Site—Defer Improving Bath
for a Year

Replying to a letter from N. C. Bacheller, offering to donate a plot of 45 acres to the city for park purposes, Park Commissioner L. F. Easton today sent Mr. Bacheller the following letter:

"Mr. N. C. Bacheller,
City.

Dear Sir,—
"Your kind letter offering a plot of land to the city for park purposes received, and at the suggestion of one of the members it was decided to attend to the formality of viewing the property tomorrow. Personally I appreciate the feelings which prompted your action, and am sure the entire board will do so.

"Yours Truly,

The Bacheller plot, known as "Bach's Park," has an extensive river front and contains one of the most picturesque natural picnic grounds adjacent to the city. It adjoins the Gund property which was inspected by Landscape Architect Nolen at the time the general park scheme was laid out. The property will be viewed by the commission tomorrow morning.

Nathan Myrick Tablet

The committee met at 10:30 in the morning yesterday with Mrs. Dr. D. S. McArthur and Miss Gertrude Hogan, representing the D. A. R., and the matter of selecting a site for the tablet which the society will provide on the spot where Nathan Myrick first camped was taken up. As this spot is located in the middle of State street at the water front, and therefore would have to be placed at one side of the street, it was decided not to select its location until the park work there is completed, with a view of making it the center of a geometrical figure with walks radiating from it.

Fix Bath Next Year

At 5:30 the committee met and decided not to make the improvements in the public bath this year, owing to the fact that there is a great pressing of work, and that the bath can be used as formerly for one more season. It was decided to notify Mayor Sorenson of this conclusion, and if it is satisfactory to him, to suggest that the bath be arranged as formerly for immediate use.

F. A. Cotton, superintendent of La Crosse normal school, today issued his first official announcement relating to the scope, purposes and efficiency of the new institution. It contains much of interest to La Crosse people, many of whom have not reached a full appreciation of this great school that will bring from 350 to 700 people to this city, involving an annual investment here of $130,000 to $150,000.

Points of interest are the statement that pupils from Minnesota and Iowa will be admitted, and a good attendance is expected from adjoining portions of these states; the college course accredits the student to the freshmen and sophomore years' work should they care to enter the state university; homes will have to be opened to the students, and rooms of students in private houses are to be open to inspection by the normal authorities.

The official statement in full follows:

Location.
La Crosse is an unusually beautiful city of some 30,000 inhabitants, situated on the Mississippi river, in a very picturesque valley, which is flanked, at this point, by large, rugged bluffs ranging in height from four to five hundred feet.

The new building, which is almost on State street, between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets, about three-quarters of a mile east of the railroad stations and of the business center of the city. The street cars run within one block of the normal school building.

The new building, which is almost two hundred feet square, is a beautiful, three-story, splendidly proportioned structure. It is provided with a large large auditorium capable of seating one thousand people; it has a large library and many well-lighted recitation rooms. The building is modern in every respect—the

"DO-NOTHING" DEFINED

Recently the Milwaukee Journal
charged that the present legislature is a "do-nothing" legislature. The paper declared that the body had failed to enact any of the important legislation to which the republican state platform pledged that party. It says that some of the bills have passed one branch of the legislature, some another, but that none of them have passed both branches. Among the measures to which the party is pledged and which the Journal charges it has failed to pass, are the following:

An income tax.
State aid for good roads.
Rotation of names on the primary ballot.

Some form of industrial insurance.
Publicity of campaign contributions and expenses and other amendments to the corrupt practice act.

In a speech in Milwaukee subsequent to the publication of the above accusations, Speaker Bancroft declared that the legislature is a "do nothing" legislature. He said the assembly was an active branch, and should be exonerated, and asserted that the senate had blocked all attempts at delivering the goods promised in the platform.

None will deny Mr. Bancroft's declaration that the assembly has been "active." It has been active every day of its life in the interest of the interests. The Stephenson members, of whom Bancroft is the leader, have been willing to do anything "the gang" wanted. Bancroft himself made speeches for the telephone trust. His satellites killed the Mary Ann bill. They have been on the side of the corporations in every battle that has been fought. Their raid on the state university was politics
that is approved by the water-power monopolists, and their attempt to kill the farmers' binder twine plant law is in accord with the wishes of the twine monopoly lobby that has made its presence manifest.

The assembly is a "do-nothing"
assembly in a sense and yet it HAS been active. The Journal's charge, so far as the assembly is concerned, should be amended by the addition of the clause, "For the people,"
so as to read thus, "A do-nothing for the people assembly."

PROMISES PROSPERITY.

Yesterday E. H. Harriman said
the 1907 financial panic was nothing but a scare. However, it was none the less demoralizing because it was only a scare, if it was only a scare.

The Review of Reviews thinks it is all over now, however. That conservative publication sees signs of a busy year ahead, for which all will be thankful. It says:

Behind the burst of business optimism, around the middle of last month, lurked solicitude as to the greatest unknown factor—the crops.
Surprise was felt at the effect of the steel price cuts, made February 23. They had not only created so much more business, but the big steel corporation's production increased 11 per cent, reaching 70 per cent of normal, the best since October, 1907
—but even prices had since improved. Thus the president of the corporation expected early prosperity—
"with an average crop."

The same day James J. Hill prophesied as to wheat, "an average full good crop," and found "no need to worry over business." The new wheat, however, is almost a month
late and below 1908 in condition.

There is increased planting of corn and oats, and reports from cotton in general are good. Finally, the International Harvester company, that farming barometer, reported "normal business."

Other signs on May 15 were cheerful. Building for April was computed at 73 per cent more than for 1908 and 20 per cent more even than for 1907. Bank clearings, even outside of the speculative center, were one-sixth more than the same week
last year. April railroad earnings had been 13 per cent ahead.

The immediate test, after all, is the orders unfilled by industrial concerns. Reports on the 15th showed the leading smelting, electric supply, leather, rubber, oil and corn products companies making large gains.

Make a note in your diary about the anti-tuberculosis lecture to be given by Harvey D. Brown at the high school auditorium Saturday night. At every one of his meetings Prof. Flynn has urged attendance on that occasion, and he speaks with full knowledge of the great prevalence of consumption, its horrors and its cost,
and what may be done to eliminate
it if people will only educate themselves upon the subject. Every man and every woman who has children,
assumes responsibility for the health
of those children, and to these children it is due that parents shall seize every opportunity to learn how to baffle the white plague.

Tonight we have the sex lecture by Prof. Flynn. Its value is almost inestimable. A majority of men and women go through life without enlightenment upon this vital subject.
Fathers and mothers should know,
not only for themselves, but for the health of their offspring and the guidance of their children, the clean,
simple truths about the propagation of the species.

BLADDER TROUBLES NEED PROMPT ATTENTION

Perhaps you don't know how much work is required of your kidneys and bladder or of how much importance they are. Do you know that on these important organs hinges good health? Many an apparently strong, healthy man or woman has been stricken without notice by serious kidney and bladder disease only to realize too late what might have been prevented with proper care and attention.

Some of the early symptoms of weak kidneys and bladder are lumbago, rheumatism, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints or muscles, at times have headache or indigestion, dizziness,
you may have a sallow complexion,
puffy or dark circles under the eyes,
sometimes feel as though you had heart trouble, may have plenty of ambition but no strength, get weak
and waste away.

If you find you have some of the symptoms mentioned, you need then a remedy that will reach the seat of the disease and at the same time
build up the system generally.

Such a remedy is Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. In thousands of cases it has accomplished just the work you need performed now.

Send to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle.
It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling all about the kidneys and bladder. When writing,
be sure and mention the La Crosse Daily Tribune. For sale at all drug stores. Price fifty cents and one dollar.

The vice president—Does the senator from Georgia yield to the senator from Rhode Island?

Mr. Bacon—I do.

Mr. Aldrich—I assume that it is my constitutional prerogative to answer to my name when it is called?

Mr. Aldrich—Exactly.

Mr. Aldrich—And I intend to exercise that right, without suggestions
to the contrary from anybody.

Mr. Bacon—Yes, indeed; I have no doubt of that, and I intend to exercise my constitutional right to say that the senator from Rhode Island
and the clerk combined cannot so conduct the business as to unduly cut off and effect a cloture which the rules of the senate do not permit.

Mr. President, I have not told all I know about this thing, and I do not propose to do so unless urged to do so; but if the matter is pressed,
I will tell what I know about it,
and I will tell what I know about
that particular instance.

Mr. Stone—Mr. President—
The vice president—Does the senator from Georgia yield to the senator from Missouri?

Mr. Bacon—Yes.

Mr. Stone—I do not wish to press the senator, but I would be delighted if he would do so.

Mr. Bacon—No; I will not do it unless senators on the other side press me. If they do so, I will. But,
Mr. President, I will say another thing, that when I tell what I know about that, I will tell that it was not a matter which originated in that particular session, but it had a precedent in a former congress, that that particular device was then adopted purposely and intentionally to effect a cloture in the senate by that means.

Senator Aldrich sat silent. He did not dare to have more open speech
about that incident. Senators Hale, Lodge Gallinger and others who were so chipped the night of the filibuster had nothing to offer. They were not more anxious than the "big chief" to have the whole truth told.

The admission of Senator Bacon conclusively demonstrates that the machinations by which Mr. Aldrich succeeded in closing the debate at that time were winked at by some of the leading democrats who were voting with the Wisconsin senator. It will be recalled that Senator Bacon was the acting presiding officer of the senate at the time the precedent to which he refers was made. He made the ruling which made that precedent and when he said it was made intentionally for the purpose of working a cloture he certainly spoke with full knowledge of the facts.

The statement of the Georgia senator vindicates the claim of Senator La Follette made at the time the clo-ture which was effected was only brought about by collusion and by ignoring the rules. Senator Bacon should have told what he knows and as it is he has revealed enough to show that the men who control in the United States senate are not above adopting the methods which have been considered questionable and improper in the conduct of a word meeting.

He Knew the Classification
The vigilant custom house officer was right on the job.

"Who is in your party?" he demanded of the fur collared theatrical manager.

"The English pony ballet that I am bringing to New York," the manager responded.

"Admitted free as antiques," said
the inspector briskly, as he turned to the next arrival.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Narrow Escape
A German shoemaker left the gas turned on in his shop one night, and upon arriving in the morning struck a match to light it. There was a terrific explosion, and the shoemaker
was blown out through the door almost to the middle of the street. A passerby rushed to his assistance,
and after helping him to arise inquired if he was injured. The little German gazed at his place of business which was now burning briskly, and said: "No, I ain't hurt. But I got out shust in time, eh?"—Argonaut.

THE CHILD OF TODAY is the parent of the future, and whether it grows up healthy and strong, or puny and weak, depends upon the intelligence of its parents, for most children are born into the world healthy, but thousands become future weaklings between birth and the age of ten, when the parents are still in greatest control.

The prime cause of trouble in the stomach is baby's indigestion. It can be food seldom cries and always looks cheerful; the little child whose stomach is good rumps and plays and never whines; the growing child learns well at school and is eager for fun if its head is clear and its stomach light, and that means if it has no constipation.

The best and safest way to cure any irregularity of the stomach and bowels
in children is by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This is a liquid laxative wonderful in its effect as Mrs. John W.
Dunham, Apple Creek, O., Mrs. H. L.
Cullam, Plainville, Ind., and numerous others can testify who give it to their children with extraordinary results.

A bottle only costs 50 cents or $1.00,
according to the size you want, and even one 50-cent bottle will do a wonderful amount of good in a family. It can be given to any member of the family in constipation, sour stomach, indigestion,
torpid liver, dyspepsia, heartburn, sick
headache and similar digestive troubles.
It cures gripes or strangles like pills,
tablets, salts and powders, which should not be given to children, women or old folks.

If you have a child or other member of the family who needs, but has never used the granic, send me your name and address to the doctor and a free trial bottle will be sent to your home. In this way you can find out what it will do without personal expense.

If there is anything about your allment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service.
The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell,
224 Caldwell bldg.,
Monticello, Ill.

THE PITCHER

Oh, say, the pitcher is the cheese,
and he Is fine to bang your lamps on
when he stands
On there and twirls the leather
in his hands

Before he squirms and puts it up to be
A strike, or ball, or any other thing,
by gee.

His umps, the lobster, thinks he understands.
Ain't like it looks to all the bunch
of fans;

But gaff him, Birdie, what's the mutt
to you and me?
And, say, there's nothing punk about
the pitch;

It's him for what's the hot; he's got
the nerve
To bang 'em at the batter, straight,
or curve

Or rush 'em out to where the bag-
gers stand.
And they won't find him sleeping at
the switch!

Oh, Birdie, keep your eyes off;
ain't he grand?

THE CATCHER
Well, now, and will you please get onto those?

Ain't he the nifty one to stand
like that
And eat the leather goods right off the bat?

Say, Birdie, ain't he better than the Wild West shows?
And don't he look like cork and cotton grows

All over him? And, listen, if that mask were flat,
How would the nose of him do for a mat?

Us for the Catcher, Birdie; you and me, too, knows
A good thing when we see it, and we've got

It right before us now, if I could be A man like him, say, Birdie, would you—what—Wow, look at him! He's nipped a lick, and sent

He's bawled it down to second—
hear 'em shout!
Yell, Birdie, yell! He's put the whole side out!

Softened the Blow
There's a prominent judge living in the rural districts of Virginia,
where bathtubs are not to be found in every home, who was the proud possessor of such a luxury, which he permitted no one else to use. One day he had and that some one had been using his tub, and, reaching the conclusion that it could be none other than Mary, his housemaid, he summoned her to appear before him and charged her with having transgressed
his unwritten law.

Mary confessed her fault, and the judge, after enjoining her to sin no more in this manner, as freely forgave her. Observing that the maid seemed somewhat hurt at the "calling down" which he had thus given her, the judge, by way of softening
his rebuke, said:

"It is not that I object to your using my tub, Mary, but I hate to behind my back that you wouldn't

Picking Out Twins
The benevolent old gentleman stopped at the sight of the two similar looking infants in the baby carriage, and said in a pleasant voice to the girl in attendance: "Ah! twins?"

"Yes, sir," replied the girl; "both boys."

"So?" said the old gentleman.
"How do you tell them apart?"

"This one," said the nurse, pointing "is this, and that one is that."

"Dear me!" said the old gentleman
"how very interesting. But," he added, indicating the second one,
"might not this one be this also?"

"It might," said the girl after a short pause. "Then, of course, that one would be that."

"Well, then," said the old gentleman, "how do manage to separate them?"

"We seldom do; but when we want to put one in one room and the other in another."

"How do you know which one you're putting in which room?"

"We look and see which one is in the other room, and then we know
the other is in the which room."

"Very good," said the old gentleman, warming up to the problem,
"but if one of them was in the house
and the other was away somewhere,
would you be able to tell which was in the house?"

"Oh, yes, sir," said the girl earnestly; "all we would have to do would be to look at him and then we would know that the one we saw was the one in the house, and then, of course
the one away somewhere would be the other. There are only two of them,
you see, which makes it very easy."

The benevolent old gentleman then passed on.—Tit-Bits.

Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially for enlarged, prostrate gland, which is very common among elderly men. L. E. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the first bottle relieved him, and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint." With the promise of a record breaking crowd and a struggle that would satisfy the most exacting fan, Dame Nature took a hand in the proceedings and decided that the Memorial day should be one of quiet and peace. Therefore she poured cold water, much of it, on the hopes of the fans and most every where else in this section of the state.

About 300 enthusiastic bugs that came from Winona in the hopes that their presence would spur their team to victory waited patiently at the ball park for the sign of a let up but it only came down harder. After waiting the required 30 minutes the game was called off and Winona was spared the terrors of another contest.

The local team left for Wausau last evening and according to the rule which requires that there must be but twelve men on the squad, Jack Wolford the local lad, who has done some good twirling this season, was released.

Morning Game
Inability to hit Watson, and three timely swats for two bases each gave La Crosse its third victory yesterday morning. Safford's team hit Converse safely nine times. Baillies replaced him in the ninth and held La Crosse safe the final round. The score:

Superior, 8; Duluth, 6
DULUTH, Minn., June 1.—Manager Drill and his Superior team slipped one over on the Duluth team on the home grounds yesterday afternoon, the White Sox taking the smaller end of an 8 to 6 count. Klingelbiel was also hit hard at times.

The morning game at Superior was called off because of interference with the G. A. R. Memorial day exercises and only the afternoon game was played. Score of the game:

"BIG BILL" BURNS

CHICAGO, Ill., May 31.—Bill Burns, who figured in one of the biggest trades in the baseball world, is showing up in good shape with the Chicago team. President Comiskey traded "Jiggs" Donahue, Nick Atkirk and Charles Cravath to the Senators in exchange for this one left-handed box artist. Burns has been the main stay of the senatorial box staff and was the one man that Comiskey wanted to strengthen his team.

With the acquisition of Burns the Sox's pitching corps has been elevated to the top of the American league in point of actual strength. Doc White has shouldered the left-handed burden for the Sox during the last two seasons, and with Burns present to share the job Doc should go along in winning fashion in the majority of his games.

Altrock established a brilliant record during the first five years of his activity on the south side, but in the last two seasons the handsome flinger has been of little service to Comiskey. Donahue has been out of the game since last August, owing to illness, and with Isbell going at his present clip Jiggs had scant hope of ever going back to his old berth at first. Cravath, secured this spring from the Boston Americans, failed to deliver the goods in fielding as well as batting, and was slated for a transfer several days ago.

Chicago won the afternoon game in the eleventh on Tinker's triple and Moran's double, the hits coming after two men were out. Errors by Cincinnati were responsible for the first two runs scored by the visitors. Manager Griffith and Capt. Robert of the Cincinnati team were put off the field in the eighth inning for arguing with Umpire Rieger.

Pittsburgh won the afternoon game from St. Louis by a score of 4 to 2. Adams received superb support. He now has the credit of winning two games in one day. Clarke drove Barbeau across the plate with the winning run in the fifth inning, and Abstein, made victory certain in the eighth by hitting for three bases and scoring on a single by Miller.

Boston defeated Philadelphia Monday afternoon, the score being 2 to 1. Coombs and Morgan had a pitchers' battle, in which the former had the better of it in the matter of base hits. Boston won the game in the seventh on a pass to Gessler. Wolter's triple and Wagner sacrifice fly.

Boston was shut out, 3 to 0, in the afternoon game. Brooklyn got its first run through a pass, an error by Starr, Bowerman's passed ball, and a poor throw by the latter. In the eighth three hits and a fumble by Becker gave Brooklyn two more tallies. Rucker was invincible with men on bases.

Detroit and Chicago played a 7 to 7 game in eight innings in the afternoon. The game was called at 5 o'clock to allow the teams to catch trains east. Detroit apparently had the game won in the early stages with a score of 7 to 2, but the Sox rallied, scoring four in the seventh and one in the eighth.

Washington bunched hits on Brockett in the sixth inning of yesterday's game and easily defeated New York, 8 to 1. Gray was a big puzzle and his work and a great stop by Chase were features. The morning game was postponed on account of rain.

Cleveland made it an even break by winning Monday afternoon's game, 5 to 1. Moline and Graham were knocked out of the box, while Joss was effective throughout. La Jole's batting was a feature, making a single, two doubles and a triple.

New York reached the .500 mark Monday afternoon by winning from Philadelphia, 5 to 4. The Giants' victory was due to Mathewson, who made a home run in the eighth inning.

Scotch Woolen Mills Co.'s Editorial

Unseasonable weather conditions, like we've been having this spring, keep people back from ordering their summer clothes.

The weak-kneed hand-me-down stores are already throwing their hands in despair and beginning to offer their wares at "unheard of prices," etc.

And one really can't blame them.

In the first place they're from six to eight months old before they're ever offered for sale, are made for no one in particular and consequently always unsatisfactory.

If conditions are favorable a bunch of them are sold at a big profit to people who seem to delight in getting stung.

Good clothes—correctly fitting clothes—are made to order according to the style and fancy and from the fabrics you select.

They cost no more—if we make them for you—than ready-mades, and you can have them on your back in a week from the time you leave your measure.

We have on our books a great many customers who had the habit of getting their clothes from ready-made stores.

But after making them one suit to order they got over that habit for good, and they come to us twice a year for a suit or overcoat—and they wouldn't go anywhere else.

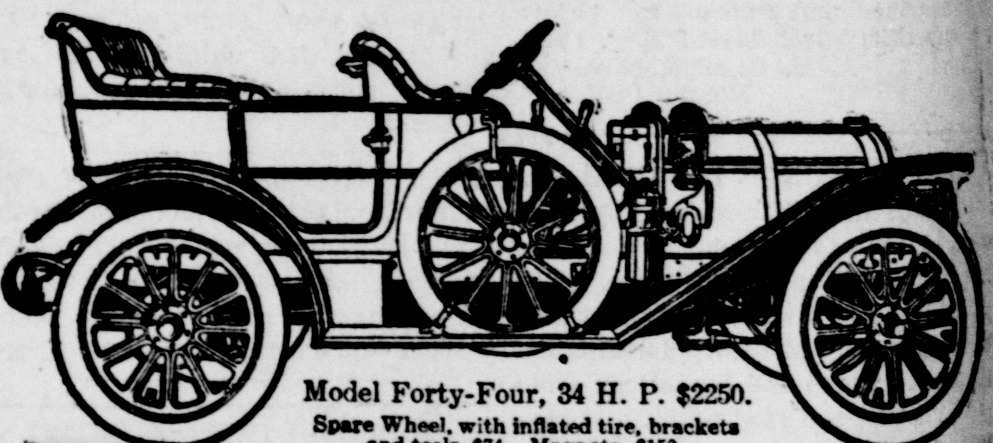

Try us out on a suit for the Fourth—your vacation suit. It'll be a good test, and we'll guarantee a satisfactory one.

Yours truly,

In the ordinary automobile much energy is wasted in transmitting power from the engine to the rear wheels through universal joints, or in other words around corners.

In the Rambler, the power is transmitted in a direct line from the crank shaft to the rear axle. This straight line drive insures the delivery of maximum power.

20TH CENTURY CELEBRATES

The president, Mrs. W. R. Finch, entertained the Twentieth Century
club at her home Tuesday afternoon.
This being the last meeting of the year, especial attention was given to the social part of the entertainment.
There was an unusually large attendance, a number of outsiders being there by invitation. After a brief business session in response to a request from Prof. Bird the club voted to assist in getting out an audience to hear Dr. Brown's lecture on the "Prevention and Cure of Tuberculosis," which will be held June 5 in the high school auditorium, this lecture following along the line of the club work of last winter in selling stamps for the anti-tuberculosis fund.
The president had prepared a list of questions and answers bringing out
the resume of the years lesson, which proved very interesting. This was followed by a delightful musical program. Miss Viola Doerflinger gave several instrumental numbers on the piano, receiving hearty encores. Miss Solon sang Schubert's "Earl King," and for an encore gave "If I Built a World for You." Lehman Hilda Gil-meister, a little eleven-year-old girl,
sang several songs in a very charming manner and was much complimented by the audience. Her voice gives promise of a future with proper care.

Refreshments were served. After a brief farewell by the president the club adjourned to meet Sept. 21. At the last election of officers Mrs.
Finch was elected to serve the second term. She makes a very efficient president, her whole heart being in sympathy with the work.
Her personality is charming and she makes an ideal officer.

AT THE BIJOU.

Miss Violet Curtis, soprano, had the disadvantage of opening the performance at the Bijou this week, but acquitted herself with credit. With her excellent stage appearance and good voice she entertained the audience with several different songs,
all of which were well received.
Allmon and Nevins present a comedy singing and instrumental act
brimming with humor and good jokes. The young man and the young lady, with their well trained voices, rendered several vocal selections of rare merit. The violin selection rendered by the young lady was something out of the ordinary.
Evers and Porkechops presented an excellent black face comedy sketch
full of negro dialect songs and humor, which kept the audience at the breaking point through the entire performance. The dancing of the little member of the troupe was excellent.

Lamont's trained cockatoos are the most wonderful birds ever presented to the public in La Crosse. The birds do everything from telling the number of days in the week to doing
a giant swing on a miniature trapeze. The birds, all of them being white in color, present an unusually clean appearance for an exhibition of this kind. They perform all manner of acrobatic tricks and the intelligent way in which they are performed removes one of the most objectionable features of trained animal or bird shows.
Meyer Levi sang the illustrated
song in excellent voice.

SPOTLIGHTS

C. A. Quintard, will present Miss Hortense Nielson and her carefully selected company in Ibsen's "A Doll's House" at La Crosse Theater on Sunday, June 6, matinee and night. The engagement promises to be one of the most important, for many reasons of the present season. The play is one of unusual beauty and significance; the acting in the piece has never been surpassed along certain lines; and the production is in the best of taste. It is a play that appeals to all classes. It is one that satisfies those who like literary quality, and also pleases those who demand entertainment when they go to the theater. It is a combination of beautiful dramatic construction and splendid dramatic appeal. No one can afford to miss this rare dramatic treat.

Shakespeare and Mendelssohn

A combination of the genius of the world's greatest poet and that of a famous composer will be enjoyed in the performance at the La Crosse theater on Monday, June 14.
Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," with the accompaniment of the full musical score composed for the play by Mendelssohn.
The La Crosse theater has secured for this production the services of the Russian Symphony orchestra of New York and the Ben Greet Players of London, who are this season making the first joint tour ever attempted by a complete company of Shakespearean actors and a full symphony orchestra.

The orchestra, which numbers fifty pieces, is under the leadership of Modest Altschuler. Six years ago
he came to America from Russia,
where he was born, and where he had been a pupil of Wassily-Safon-off, now conductor of the New York Symphony orchestra. Altschuler sought out in New York musicians
of his own nationality and organized an orchestra for the purpose of introducing to the American public the works of certain Russian composers who were known chiefly by name on this side of the water. Beginning in a small, East side hall in New York where the audiences were composed mostly exclusively of Russians, the orchestra rapidly became popular, until now the series of concerts it gives annually in Carnegie hall, the musical center of New York is assured of abundant patronage.

It was on the 100th anniversary of the birth of Mendelssohn that the orchestra and the Ben Greet Players
made their joint appearance.
Altschuler's orchestra had already become noted for its interpretation of Mendelssohn's compositions which,
with the Russian numbers composed
the greater part of its programmes.
The Ben Greet Players, in turn, had for six years been known as prominent interpreters of Shakespeare's comedies. So successful were their early performances that the combination was called to other cities, and eventually to all principal cities between New York and San Francisco.
The two companies are now on their return trip to New York. They will be seen in La Crosse for one performance.

Big Garden Lot in Town Given With Each Wisconsin Farm

Come to the Round Lake country,
Wisconsin and try Dairy Farming.
Never was there a better time to get out of the old rut--never a better time to get into a new country--so rich, so fruitful that it will make you a master of the soil instead of a slave to it. For just at the present time the undersigned firm has been allotted three big town
lots in the new town of Round Lake,
which will be given absolutely free
with the first three orders for Wisconsin land. Each one of these lots is 5-6 of an acre, enough for a fine yard and a big garden.

$3,000 Profit a Year

This is the lowest estimate of the earnings of one of these farms when completely under cultivation. Many are making more than this. For example, Mr. John H., of Sawyer
County, made $3,650 last year. $1-800 of this was from his dairy products. Wisconsin is now called the "Dairy State." It has become famous for its rich milk and cream, its beautiful golden butter. The wonderful "Big Red Clover" that grows uncultivated in the Round Lake country is the best stock food known.
It produces butter of unequalled quality. And the product is easy to sell.
Creameries are going up all over the state.

$100 An Acre in Onions

A big and sure profit can be made from garden produce. Last year Mr.
John H., in addition to the $1,800

from his dairy products, made $350 from garden truck. Two acres of onions brought him in $200 clear.
An acre of strawberries made him
over a hundred dollars. He banked $350 clear profit from a five-acre potato patch. Potatoes are staple in Wisconsin. The state has the reputation of growing the finest in the country. They run 175 to 300 bushels per acre.

So you see, you can make big money in Wisconsin. And as good as this land is, you can get it for next to nothing. This is due to a very peculiar circumstance.

Timber Cut in 1895 Helps You to Pay

For these "cut-over" lands belonged originally to the lumber companies. They bought them for pine lumber, not for farming. And now they have gotten the pine timber off, and that timber has paid them a handsome profit. So they turned these lands over to the American Immigration Co., who are willing to let this land go for almost nothing to those that know how to farm it.
A "second growth" of smaller timber has sprung up--and there is some clearing to do. But this, too, helps to hold down the price and makes it possible for you to get the land at about one-tenth of its worth.

$160 Gets 80 Acres

In fact, you can get 80 acres of this land for a cash payment of only

$160.00 and you will be allowed ten years in which to complete your payments. $160 down gets you a fine 80-acre farm that you can call your own--a farm in the richest dairying
section of the world--a farm that will net you at least $3,000 a year when it is under cultivation. Surely you won't let an opportunity like this slip between your fingers? Surely you will at least go and find out about this land--see photographs of it and letters from those who have settled on it.

Ask for Letters

If you cannot come at once, write and ask us to send you copies of these letters. We will gladly do it.
And when you read what others say about this country--the big profits
they are making--and how they are finding health and happiness in this wonderful out-of-door life, surely then you will know that this is the greatest opportunity of your whole life.

Don't put it off till tomorrow-- take action today. Don't continue to be a slave to the soil. Don't be rooted to the land you were born on.
Come up here and learn how easily

EXPLAINS THE WONDERS OF THE HUMAN MACHINE

meal, at the height of digestion. This will produce wonderful effect, he says, and the benefit will be sure to be noticed. In most cases it is recommended to cut down the beans, cheese and milk, and partake of corn, peas and fruit in place of meat. In biliousness, over secretion of gastric juices in the stomach and constipation, flatulency of the bowels, Mr. Flynn recommends fruits and vegetables and the elimination of bread-stuffs. Rice steamed four hours with cream and very little sugar was recommended. Sugar with milk is forbidden, though sugar with cream is allowable in small quantities. The juice of two lemons squeezed into two quarts of milk and allowed to stand 24 hours will produce a substance which, after the whey is removed is one of the best food for the bowels known and will do a great deal to relieve constipation. Poor digestion is caused by too much heat (blood) in the stomach and intestines and poor digestion should not be stuffed with more heat building food. For catarrh Prof. Flynn ordered his hearers to cut out dairy products and for colds sugar and dairy products should be eliminated from the diet.

A strong point made by Mr. Flynn was that the less food eaten, the less exercise necessary. If one eats heavily a great amount of exercise should be taken, whereas if only a proper amount of food is partaken of but little exercise is required to take care of it. If irritable Prof. Flynn directs you to cut out sugars. Another strong point was the information that air gives more food than all the foods that can be taken into the body. Prof. Flynn urged his audience to realize this and to get the pure oxygen into their lungs at all hazards.

Meats are the cause of body odors, says Flynn for they decay and the poison odors are carried off through the pores in part at least to the discomfort of those who chance to be near the meat eater. Meat only stimulates, says Flynn, and offers small nourishment, while it takes all the strength it produces to get the stuff out of the body, therefore eliminating even the benefit of the stimulation received through eating meat.

Blood Should Be Alkali

"Have your blood alkali," said Prof. Flynn, "instead of acid." The organic salts found in fruits and vegetables are necessary to produce this result. Green stuffs were strongly urged upon the audience at all stages of the lecture, showing that Prof. Flynn attaches much importance to this style of diet. He continuously advises his hearers to swallow meat whole. If they are so inconsiderate of their health as to eat it, because if chewed to a liquid it will cause stomach trouble.

Marvels of the Human Body

During the course of his lecture Prof. Flynn brought out a great fund of wonderfully interesting information about the human body. It contains more than 200 bones and 500 muscles; the heart is 5 inches long and 3 inches in diameter and beats 70 times per minute, or 100,800 per day which means 30,000,000 times each year. The blood in the human body weighs 25 pounds and each heart beat moves 2 ounces of it. Each day the heart receives and discharges seven tons of blood. It is the most remarkable pump in the world, and Prof. Flynn called attention to the remarkably small amount of food required to produce the vast amount of energy required for this immense amount of work.

The lungs contain a gallon of air in a day we inhale 4,000 gallons of air. The surface cells of the lungs spread out would cover a space of 20,000 square feet. Five and one-half inches of chest expansion is necessary to inhale the 50 barrels of air necessary each day to purify the blood. The average is only three inches, says Mr. Flynn, and perfect health under this condition is impossible. Oxygen is absolutely necessary to digestion, and the more oxygen we have taken into the body the better for the digestion. The brain weighs 3 pounds or more and there are more than 10,000,000 in the body. The skin furnishes 3,500 square inches of sewerage tubes making a total skin sewerage for the body of forty miles.

The Life of the Organs

Discussing longevity Prof. Flynn says man should live, with proper care, exercise and food, as long as the shortest lived organ in the body, which is the kidneys, the life of which, according to science, is 200 years. Authenticated government statistics show that many people have lived to be 150, 160 and up to 180 and 190 years of age, thoroughly proving the reliability of what Prof. Flynn says, and showing the possibility of this long life. The life of the heart is 200 years, the stomach 300 years, the liver 400 years, the lungs 1,500 years, skin 90 years, and the bones 4,000 years.

A Klondike Incident

Prof. Flynn cites an incident from San Francisco in the case of Hart, one of the first thirty Klondikers and a money king of the west, to show that only very little food is required. They became lost in the wilds of Alaska and found it necessary to appropriate the food. They received some for their dogs, but found they could feed them only once in eight days. The dogs were not compelled to work, and that at the end of the time they came out of the experience, the fattest, healthiest and best furred animals in the region.

In showing the wonders of the human laboratory—the stomach—Prof. Flynn shows that the poppy, taken into the human laboratory as food causes no harm whereas in the laboratory of the chemist it becomes a bane to a whole race. Wheat and corn in the human stomach are blessings and the best of foods, but in the laboratory of man they become whiskey and alcohol which is poison. An over consumption of these grains in the human body produces the same effect as alcohol being produced which is vastly more poisonous than that manufactured in the distilleries. The human laboratory is the greatest that man can conceive, says Prof. Flynn.

A body of 150 pounds contains 105 pounds of water, which regulates the temperature. Four to eight glasses of water are required each day by the body, and this is found not along in the fluid itself, but in fruits, vegetables and practically all foods.

Mineral salts, found in fresh vegetables make the blood of the right consistency, which is so necessary to good digestion and good health. If one feels slow and tired partaking of vegetables lettuce and other green stuffs will relieve this condition and live the blood to the proper consistency.

Prof. Flynn referred to an educated taste as a savings bank where we need draw out no interest or principal. It is building for us endlessly.

Human beings, he said, should carry 20 per cent of body fat. Fat is desirable for rickets, consumption, constipation, but is disastrous to dysentery.

Food Values

Discussing food values Prof. Flynn shows a pound of sirloin steak contains 60 granules of protein, a pound of eggs 60, pound of dried peas 112 and a pound of peanut butter 133. Prof. Flynn tells a story of a government surveyor who worked in the Rocky mountains and carried with him only a pocketful of raisins and peanuts and came out of the mountains in perfect health. The reason soups are not served clear and eaten with crackers, bread and other ingredients is that they stimulate the pyloric until the fluid is digested. Sweets create a false appetite and effect the liver. Exercise after meals Prof. Flynn recommends for slow digestion and lemon juice and water is a great germicide and is invaluable for worms.

Classes to Close

One thing which is attracting attention to Prof. Flynn is that he makes a statement, then backs it up with reasons, which do not permit of denial. His address is indicative of the great immense value which can be derived from this course of instruction. The classes are crowding and no more free classes will be given after today. Tomorrow is the final opportunity to take the course, and tickets should be reserved by those who appreciate the advantage offered them by The Tribune in this course, before tomorrow evening. Tickets may be reserved at The Tribune office, or after the lectures, those who fail to act immediately will be able only to regret it after the specialist leaves the city, for it is not likely that another similar opportunity will soon be offered to La Crosse people.

The Secret of Youth

On Friday evening Prof. Flynn will give his famous paid lecture upon "Face and Hair, How I Train and What I Eat."

In this Friday night lecture, at a place to be announced later, Prof. Flynn will divulge what he considers the secrets of his work. It will in fact, be his whole course of training crowded into one lesson. He will teach the location, care and exercise of the blood vessels, muscles and nerves of the face and head to produce clear complexion, well rounded features and a beautiful face. He will instruct in the care of the hair, and will show what he eats and how he (an old man) trains himself. He will show how a woman should train and how young men should train, and will give instructions in full in this most interesting of all his lectures. This is a paid lecture, and an admission of fifty cents is charged to help defray the expenses of the visit of the specialist to La Crosse. However, Prof. Flynn has, for the exclusive use of his class members, usually, a face cream, a hair tonic and a shampoo of his own prescription and to each person attending this lecture he will give free one of these preparations, making the lecture in reality free. These preparations will later be put on the market here for Mr. Flynn's class members.

Sex Lectures Tonight

Tonight the two free sex lectures, considered of utmost importance, will be given. Miss Basworth will give an illustrated lecture for the ladies at the First M. E. church. Eighth and King, which will be fully illustrated. Prof. Flynn will lecture to the men at the First German M. E. Church, Seventh and Ferry streets. He will tell the men's lecture out early enough so that the men may return for their wives and companions to the King street church in plenty of time. No tickets will be required for these lectures and they are entirely free.

Appetite and Hunger

Distinguishing between appetite and hunger Prof. Flynn said:

There is as much difference between hunger and appetite as there is between light and darkness. Before we have reached the age of ten years, we have lost the sense of natural hunger by our wrong habits of living, and in its place developed the artificial sense—appetite.

The first step toward perfect health is to destroy this abnormal sense and restore hunger. What is the difference between the sensation of hunger and that of appetite? Most people describe the sensation of hunger by using such terms as faintness, craving, gnawing, etc., all applying to the stomach. But these are sensations of appetite. "Appetite is a hard master and the great mass of humanity is ruled by it and are its abject slaves."

Natural hunger, like natural thirst, is located in the mouth, and is a sensation that food would taste deliciously. When one is hungry, he can wait for his meals, when ruled by appetite, the agony of waiting for a meal is almost unbearable.

"Appetite is the severest taskmaster that a man can have." King Al. Cohol has slain his thousands, but King Appetite numbers its victims by millions.

To regain natural hunger, eat only when the call comes from the mouth. This should be the rule of one's life. It has been scientifically demonstrated that a person cannot have this natural hunger more than twice a day. If the call comes only once, eat but once. If not at all that day, fast. This is the only way to preserve natural hunger. With the loss of hunger comes appetite which means disease. With natural hunger in the mouth and throat comes perfect health.

"A Feast of Reason"

What ho! You dyspeptics, you neurotics, you bilious ones, you chronic invalids of all kinds, all you who have lost faith in your digestive apparatus. You too, who are proud in your strength and vain-glorious in your health and beauty. I invite you to a repast.

The banquet hall will be a most common room, neither well heated nor dazzling with light. The festive board will be a mere box unadorned by fine linen, silver or cut glass. The seats will be hard boards, the food will be plain and uncooked.

You refuse my invitation? You turn away in disgust? But I beg you not to act too hastily. Take time to think and great wisdom may be unfolded to you.

Why do I ask you to such a meal? Why the box seat, the board table, the cold food, the fingers for forks? If I knew your physical condition I could tell whether or not you could have the key to my secret.

If you were well, you would dine with me, and take pleasure in it. If ill, nothing but the daintiest food and aesthetic conditions would tempt you.

Why Do We Overeat?

Our great sin is overeating, and we take the consequences in ill health. Nearly all agree to this, but few go any farther. What you need to know is how to overcome it. Very few have the courage of their convictions not to eat, or try to eat, all the good things on the bill of fare, when stopping at a good hotel. The man at home has the same temptations, for he eats according to the manner and style in which the food

TONED UP THE STOMACH

Get Rid of the Gas, Headaches and Dizziness.

The symptoms of stomach trouble vary. Some victims have a ravenous appetite, some loathe the sight of food. Often there is a feeling as if of weight on the chest, a full feeling in the throat. Sometimes the gas presses on the heart and leads the sufferer to think he has heart disease. Sick headache is a frequent and distressing symptom.

A very delicate stomach requires easily digested food but nature never intended that the food should be digested before it is eaten. The stomach must be strengthened to perform its own work and what it needs is not food already digested but a tonic. The processes of digestion are controlled by the blood and nerves, and medical science has produced no better digestive tonic than

This is the only way to preserve natural hunger. With the loss of hunger comes appetite which means disease. With natural hunger in the mouth and throat comes perfect health.

"A Feast of Reason"

What ho! You dyspeptics, you neurotics, you bilious ones, you chronic invalids of all kinds, all you who have lost faith in your digestive apparatus. You too, who are proud in your strength and vain-glorious in your health and beauty. I invite you to a repast.

The banquet hall will be a most common room, neither well heated nor dazzling with light. The festive board will be a mere box unadorned by fine linen, silver or cut glass. The seats will be hard boards, the food will be plain and uncooked.

You refuse my invitation? You turn away in disgust? But I beg you not to act too hastily. Take time to think and great wisdom may be unfolded to you.

Why do I ask you to such a meal? Why the box seat, the board table, the cold food, the fingers for forks? If I knew your physical condition I could tell whether or not you could have the key to my secret.

If you were well, you would dine with me, and take pleasure in it. If ill, nothing but the daintiest food and aesthetic conditions would tempt you.

Why Do We Overeat?

Our great sin is overeating, and we take the consequences in ill health. Nearly all agree to this, but few go any farther. What you need to know is how to overcome it. Very few have the courage of their convictions not to eat, or try to eat, all the good things on the bill of fare, when stopping at a good hotel. The man at home has the same temptations, for he eats according to the manner and style in which the food is served, not according to the degree of hunger he has.

Eat on a Box

How to avoid the evil consequences of pandering to appetite is a problem I have long tried to solve. Only one plan have I found to work successfully. That is, to eat as the world does, once a week, with all the style my aesthetic tastes demand. The rest of the time, to eat plain things in plain style, on a box, as it were. Then when I am not hungry, I cannot eat. When I am really hungry, I do not even need the aroma of cooked foods to stimulate me to do so.

So I advise you, eat on a box, if you care anything about your health. Of course, you will object strenuously, the tone of your voice is a protest. But if you are really in earnest, you will at least try it.

Were You Ever Really Hungry?

To illustrate my point further. Did you ever get caught out on a long walk or drive where it was impossible to get anything to eat or drink for a day? Those of you who have will smile at the picture that comes to your mind. It is the food that you want at such a time, not the china dishes, silver, glass or waiter. You will eat off a box, out of your hand in the buggy or boat, on the side of the road, on a cold stone, or on a fence with your toes caught to hold you on.

I remember two such occasions myself. I had been out on a hunting trip. Towards evening I ran across some bridge builders who had just finished their supper. They offered me apple pie and cheese—all they had left. At that time I did not like apple pie or cheese, but having had nothing to eat all day I felt my fastidiousness vanish. On any other occasion I would have said bluntly that I did not care for apple pie, but hunger had the upper hand, and I was another person. The day before, I would not have been able to enjoy any meal unless the linen, plates, knives and forks were according to my taste, but now when the men said "apple pie" the name of my favorite dish never sounded half so good to my ears. And taste, why I fairly screamed with delight. I never ate anything that tasted quite so good.

The Hungry Man Eats Anything

At another time I was looking over some property in California. Dinner time came but no place to get anything to eat. Toward the middle of the afternoon, one man with us began to run toward a tree, shouting as he ran. When the rest saw what he was running for—a fig tree—they gave one unanimous howl and made for the tree on the dead run. While before this I could not endure ripe figs for they had always made me sick, now the very thought of them gave new life to my legs and I found myself running amongst the foremost and shouting loudly as the rest.

The Secret of the Box

These experiences of mine made me believe that food taken under such circumstances never disagrees with a person and proved that any kind of a table, knives or forks, or no table at all, will do. On such occasions, no fault finding is ever heard. You never hear the remark that this is not as good as mother used to make. Too much variety; too many hot things; too much flavoring; too much coffee; too rich desserts; too pleasant surroundings all tend to make us overeat. As a result, we have stupidity, sickness, death.

Pass on a Good Constitution

You may have inherited a strong constitution from your parents or grandparents, and consequently you do not feel as yet, the effects of over-indulgence, but that does not give you a license to use up that strength or to abuse it. You should thank God for it, and try to improve it still more and pass it down to posterity.

So if your brain is not as clear as it used to be, or if you do not feel like beaming at the whole world—to the box.

DETROIT SCHOOL CHILDREN ESCAPE FROM FLAMES

DETROIT, Mich., June 1.—Nine hundred children walked down stairs and fire escapes of St. Casimir's parochial school here in response to the gong for fire drill, just in time to see the fire that had been discovered a few minutes before, burst into a roaring mass of flames on the second floor. One child was hurt in the hasty fire drill and several had narrow escapes from the fire engines as they dashed up to the school. The building will be a total loss.

S.S.S. CURES ECZEMA, ACNE, TETTER ETC.

While Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, etc., are troubles which affect the skin, their source is far deeper than the outside cuticle. These affections are caused by irritating humors, or uratic acid in the blood. Such impurities inflame and irritate the delicate net-work of fibrous tissue which lies just beneath the surface of the outer skin, and the inflammatory discharge thus produced is forced out through the pores and glands, and is continually scratched off the flesh is left raw and more susceptible to other infections. It can very readily be seen then that to produce a cure the circulation must be purified and cleansed. This S.S.S. will do. It goes down to the bottom, removes all humors and impurities, neutralizes the excessive action of the system and in this way removes the cause of disease. Local applications can only soothe the irritation and assist in keeping the skin clean; they never produce a cure because such treatment does not reach the blood. S.S.S. restores to the thin, acid blood all its lost properties, makes it pure and rich and enables it to nourish the skin and keep it soft, smooth and healthy. ## PLAN TRANS-ATLANTIC TRIP IN AIRSHIP VERY SOON

BERLIN, June 1.—Temporary repairs were made today to Zeppelin's airship which suddenly terminated its record breaking cruise of nearly 900 miles yesterday by crashing into a tree, badly tearing the forward part of the aluminum envelope and otherwise injuring the big craft. Zeppelin was able to re-ascend at 12:28 p. m. and resume his flight to Friedrichshafen.

The war office has been aroused by the flight, as nothing else has aroused it in years. Captain Ehrlich, whose study or aerial navigation admittedly gives him rank in knowledge of the subject, said today:

"An Atlantic passage is possible, in my opinion, in the near future." Captain Kehler said:

"This voyage has proved that we are on the verge of an era of aerial achievement."

Captain Hildebrandt declared: "It was a marvelous feature."

FUNERAL AS "SWEAT BOX."

CHICAGO, June 1.—The police permitted Dr. Haldane Cleminson to go to his wife's funeral this afternoon because they believed that the experience would hasten a confession. Although the young physician has thus far come unscathed from the questioning at headquarters, the police say he is losing his nerve. They believe the sight of the body of the woman who Cleminson says was murdered by burglars, but who the police think may have been killed by a drug administered by her husband, may be the last thing necessary to bring forth a confession.

TRAMP REMAINS AT MORGUE UNIDENTIFIED

The body of the man who was accidentally killed by the Northwestern passenger train Sunday afternoon near Medary, is still at the undertaking establishment of Miller Bros., no one having as yet identified the dead man.

Archie Moch, who is employed at the Milwaukee here, yesterday, believing that the man was his father, went to the morgue and after looking at the body was convinced that the man was his father. By the general appearance of the body, Mr. Moch declared that he was absolutely certain that it was his father, and made arrangements to have the body taken to his home at Baraboo for burial. He wired his home that the body would arrive there and soon after received an answer that his father was alive and working in the offices of the railroad at that place. This changed the arrangements here and the body still remains unidentified. Mr. Moch declares that he received word from his mother to the effect that his father was coming to this city and upon seeing the remains at the morgue was positive that it was none other than his father, Fred Moch of Baraboo.

SPARTANS RUN THEIR AUTO INTO THE CURB

An automobile from Sparta, containing four young men who refused to divulge their identity and a little firewater was the combination which spelled trouble for the young men about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the corner of Gilette and Caledonia streets.

The man running the machine evidently lost control of the steering wheel and ran into the apron of the sidewalk at this corner, tipping the machine over and damaging it to a great extent. One of the young men suffered a broken rib, but refused medical attendance here. The front of the automobile was smashed in, the lights were broken and the rear axle had snapped into two pieces. A team of horses was procured and the damaged machine was taken to the garage of C. H. Holway, where it will be repaired.

EULOGIZES LIVING; HONORS THE DEAD

MEMORIAL DAY ORATIONS IN CITY IMPRESSIVE

DR. CONDON'S ORATION GREAT

Large Audience Hears words of New Catholic Priest; Rev. Shute
Talks at Cemetery

Memorial day exercises in La Crosse yesterday were striking. At the Y. M. C. A. in the afternoon the crowd was somewhat interfered with by the rain but a large audience heard Rev. Dr. Condon of St. Mary's church delivered a masterful Memorial day oration. Rev. A. Lincoln Shute delivered a strong address at the Oak Grove cemetery, at the exercises in the morning.

Rev. Condon said:

A Pause in Reverence.
"Today America pauses amid her myriad schemes of enterprise to honor the men who more than three decades ago in the great struggle for national existence, won imperishable renown for themselves, and as imperishable we trust, freedom for the republic. Animated by this sentiment, we, a portion of the American people, assemble under the auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic. Fitting auspices, indeed. Who can better honor the heroic dead, who sleep in the sepulcher of glory carved with the good sword, than the comrades who laid them to rest when the thunders of battle had been hushed over many a blood-drenched field of fame—the comrades who shared similar perils, and whom a merciful providence has spared from a similar destiny? Flowers fall on the tomb with heavenly grace from hands which here the sword for freedom, and which laid to rest the inmates of that tomb."

"Not only are the auspices fitting—the occasion, the day, is inspiring. It is sacred alike to memory, and to hope. It commemorates a triumph of human liberty, and of eternal right. It commemorates the emancipation of one race, the sacrifice of another, and strengthens our hope for the growth and glory of their co-operation. It commemorates a revelation of all that man, when true to God, can do for his fellow-men."

The Grand Army.
"The Grand Army of the Republic! It marched farther than the armies of Caesar, or Alexander. It fought more battles than the hosts of Tamerlane. But it carried out the ambition of no vulgar conqueror. It extended not the sway of oppression. In the march of the Grand Army, no helpless peoples were mowed down, no rights were trampled on, no arts were lost, civilization was not swept away. The only ruins the Grand Army left were the ruins of the auction block, of the whipping-post, and of four million shackles."

"The Grand Army of the Republic! The very name carries us back nearly half a century. The years intervening roll away, and we stand in spirit in the great struggle for freedom. In that struggle the Grand Army of the Republic, the soldiers of the north, were, I believe, the instrumentally chosen by Heaven to redeem the land from the foul blight of slavery, and to advance mankind. Let us then consider the principles for which that struggle was waged, and the results which followed it, in order that we may correctly estimate the services of the Grand Army of the Republic, and the debt of gratitude we owe them."

A War for Civilization.
"The Civil war was a war for liberty, a war for national unity, a war for civilization."

"It was a war not only for the freedom of the north, threatened by the arrogant slave power of the south, but for the freedom of an alien and proscribed race. Many and illustrious have been the deeds for liberty from the beginning of time, and in every part of the world. Mankind preserves their memory, and crowns them with applause. Never, however, was a struggle for liberty grander than the struggle of the soldiers of the north from '61 to '65. They struggled not only for their own liberty, and the liberty of their race, but primarily it would seem, for as despised and subjugated a race as the world had ever seen. They fought to actualize the Declaration of Independence, to make good the lofty professions with which we began our career as a nation, and with which we electrified mankind. Think of it! In the Declaration we proclaim that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by the Creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. And then, like a blotch of blood on our own constitution was the clause permitting traffic in human flesh and blood!

"If, however, the wrong was great, and the contradiction glaring, noble was the reparation, and mighty has been the change. Today the Declaration of Independence is more than a theory.

God the Master.
"America is a commonwealth of ninety million of free men without a slave, and with no master save God."

"The Civil war was a war for national unity. It was to emphasize beyond possibility of misinterpretation the meaning words of the constitution: 'We, the people of the United States.' It was to demonstrate the truth of those immortal words of Webster, 'Liberty, and Union, now and forever, once and inseparable.'"

Tribute to South.

"Today the southern people always sincere, if misguided, and as brave as the bravest, salute the flag of our common country with patriotism as fervent as that of the north, and would rally as enthusiastically in its defense. Indeed, the sentiment of the south may be summed up in these words of Henry Grady, 'Sons of the south, sir, would die to defend the union which their fathers sought to destroy.'"

"The Civil war was a war for civilization. It requires neither wide range of historic reading, nor depth of philosophy to realize how much of supreme importance was at stake in the Civil war. He who believes with Talleyrand that 'everybody is wiser than anybody,' he who believes with Lincoln in a 'government of the people, by the people and for the people,' must behold suspended on the issue of that conflict, the fate of popular government and the political salvation of the world."

Failure Would Have Come.

"If the south had succeeded, the republic would have been no more. Another chapter, and the saddest in all the melancholy record of unsuccessful struggles for liberty, would have been written. The experiment of self government by the people would have failed. And the hopes of the oppressed of all the earth would have gone out, forever."

Dreadful, indeed, were the possibilities attendant upon southern success. Hands red with guilt of slavery would have held the political destinies of America. Perhaps the slave power would have established a strong centralized government. Like a huge boa constrictor the slave power would then have coiled itself around the states, crushing in its slimy folds that last instinct of liberty, and striking its deadly fangs into all who would resist. Perhaps the principles of Calhoun would have been carried to the extremity of his logic. State rights would have been asserted. There would have been secession from those who had seceded. Separate and independent governments would have been established. And superadded to the horror of slavery, would have been the horrors of European history, with its centuries of militarism, devastation and woe."

"But this was not to be. The blood and treasure, the sacrifice and heroism of the revolution, of the war of 1812; the civic virtues displayed on land and sea, in peace and war, in public office and in private station; the patriotism and statesmanship of Washington and Jefferson, of Hamilton and Jackson, of Webster and Clay—were to have a fairer issue. It was not given to mankind to hear amid the ruins of our country, and over the tomb of liberty, the jubilation of the oppressor, mingled with the wailings of the oppressed."

An Awful Cost.
"But, oh, at what a cost was this awful destiny averted! We think today of those who died that the nation might live, of all they wrought and suffered. We think of the homes made desolate, of the hearts broken over loved ones who marched away and came not back, of the lives that went up to God in battle, in hospital, in a din prison pen. Surely, if we have reached a height of unprecedented national glory, we have passed through the valley of suffering. Surely, if we have beheld the salvation of God, it was by the red sea of fraternal blood! We are thankful those days have passed away. We pray God they may have passed away forever. Far, very far from us, oh God of battles, be thy fiery host, thy destructive march, and thy terrible vengeance! But thou, O Prince of Peace, come, abide with us forever, and let thy rays, O Light of Ages, fill the land!"

Dr. Condon next spoke of some heroic types of the Civil war, especially of the sister of charity, who, often, a daughter of a refined home, had sacrificed the fairest worldly prospects and consecrated herself to God. He spoke of her merciful ministrations, on the red field of battle, staunching the life blood of the wounded soldier, cooling the fevered brow, and sending words of celestial sweetness along the depth of a soul about to go into the presence of God. He next spoke of the lessons of the Civil war. First: Wrong cannot be condoned in our national life without peril to that life. Secondly: Not only in war should patriotism be active but also in peace, because, if, as Milton says, 'Peace hath her victories no less renowned than those of war.' Peace has also her responsibilities and defeats, and the greatest nations of the past have gone down from corruption engendered in days of peace. The spirit of sacrifice which preserves the nation in war is necessary to preserve it in peace. And this sacrifice consists in the maintenance at all costs and the enforcement, ever and everywhere, of those principles of morality and religion which are the root of all national greatness."

"It has long been our desire to call attention in a concrete and attractive way to the progress that has been made in the Pacific northwest since the first white woman took up her abode amid the rude surroundings of that remote wilderness a progress against adverse conditions that has no parallel in history."

"The exposition, while not designed for the purpose of commemorating of historical events, will nevertheless, recall our discovery of the Oregon country and its early settlement; the prolonged dispute over its ownership between this country and Great Britain, the hardships endured and the resolution displayed by our pioneers which resulted finally in the confirmation of our title as far north as the fifty fifth parallel."

town district were also in connection, and for five minutes their hoarse cries led the babel of noises.

The pent-up feelings of the multitude of people, whose breathing had scarce been audible, found relief in a pandemonium of cheering. From the hovering lake craft whistles screamed while from the great buildings the machinery whirled its accompaniment.

Carried from over the hills and woods came a deep re-echoing from the manufactories and shipping of the city and water front, and the white hulls of the ships of war of the United States, at anchor in the bay, were hidden in the smoke from their engines of destruction. Answering back from the visiting Japanese cruisers came a thunderous national salute of 21 guns.

Other Formalities.
Preceding the official opening exercises, a military and naval parade, reviewed by Admirals Ijichi and Sebrer, was held, after which a program of speech making and music was participated in at the amphitheater. Director General I. A. Nadeau delivered a brief address, stating his pleasure in announcing the completion of the fair. In concluding, Mr. Nadeau said:

"Permit me to express the hope that the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition may prove a milestone in the progress of the world; that all who attend may receive an inspiration for good from it, and that it may live in the kindly remembrance of the people."

Congressman Rodenberg, of Washington, then spoke briefly, and he was followed by Ambassador Bryce, of Great Britain, who delivered a graceful and eloquent address, which was enthusiastically applauded.

James J. Hill, the great railroad builder, whose lines have had much to do with the development of the state of Washington, next spoke, and was followed by President J. E. Chilberg, of the exposition, who delivered a glowing tribute to the men to whose untiring effort and zeal the exposition was made possible.

The exercises attending the opening of the fair were concluded with a benediction by the Right Rev. Frederick W. Keator, bishop of Olympia.

MRS. EMMA KAUFMANN
AGAIN BEING TRIED
FLANDREAU, S. D., June 1.—The second trial of Mrs. Emma Kaufmann wife of a wealthy Sioux Falls brewer, charged with one of the most brutal murders of recent times, began here today. The alleged victim was Miss Agnes Polreis, a 19-year-old girl, who died in the Kaufmann family.

The girl who worked for Mrs. Kaufmann in 1906 died in the Sioux Falls hospital, her head and body covered with wounds. Mrs. Kaufmann was tried for murder in June 1907. She was convicted of manslaughter, second degree, but appealed and was granted a new trial.

During the first trial it was testified that Mrs. Kaufmann, a few days before the girl came to the hospital, poured hot water on her after she had fallen to the floor exhausted by heating for the purpose, as she is alleged to have explained of "trying to get her up."

Mrs. N. Solverson, visited her sister Mrs. O. A. Unseth at Westby Saturday.

The dinner will commence sharply at 6 o'clock and all members are urged to be on hand promptly. It is planned to conclude the dinner before 8 o'clock.

Mrs. N. Solverson, visited her sister Mrs. O. A. Unseth at Westby Saturday.

The woman who has a thousand petty cares and annoyances while she suffers with headache or sideache must not be blamed if she cannot always be angelically amiable. What she needs is thoughtfulness from her family and such a simple and natural remedy as Lane's Family Medicine, the herb tea that makes weak women strong and well. Sold by druggists and dealers, 25c.

JOHNSON AND KAUFMAN NEXT?

NEW YORK, June 1.—There is a possibility that Jack Johnson and Al Kaufman may be matched here this afternoon. Charley Harvey, who is looking after Billy Delaney's interests in the east, has an engagement to meet Johnson to talk fight, and Johnson is on record as declaring that so far as he is concerned, nothing will be more satisfactory than to give Kaufman a chance. He wants it to go twenty instead of 45 rounds, however, and there is a possibility of a clash on that point. The general impression, however, is that Johnson will tie up for a bout on the coast with Kaufman during the Christmas week.

"It cured me," or "It saved the life of my child," are the expressions you hear every day about Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. This is true the world over where this valuable remedy has been introduced. No other medicine in use for diarrhoea or bowel complaints has received such general approval. The secret of the success of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is that it cures.

THREE I BREAKS RECORD

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., June 1.—The publishers would have to invent a new kind of score book if many games went as far as that yesterday between Bloomington and Decatur of the Three I league. It was 26 innings and it beat all professional baseball records. Bloomington scored a run in the first inning and Decatur one in the third, and after that the score was a string of goose eggs until Decatur scored again in its half of the twenty-sixth.

THE MOST VITAL of MAGAZINES

"Cut Its Pages and It Bleeds"

THAT'S one man's striking way of expressing his conviction that OSMOPOLITAN Magazine is not a lifeless, inorganic, spineless thing of mere ink and paper, made just to sell, but the living, breathing, pulsating embodiment of all that is nearest the heart and most welcome to the mind of the American people.

Q OSMOPOLITAN contains within its always charming covers, something for every member of the family. And that something is the best of its kind in every case. The magazine's great prestige and purchasing power enable it to command the best work of all the most popular and highly paid writers and artists—not merely now and then, but twelve months in the year.

Q Its special articles are always unusually vivid and readable studies of the most significant of contemporary men and movements, prepared by the ablest writers, at great expense and only after months and often years of expert, first-hand investigation.

Q Its short fiction is representative of the most popular short-story wizards of the day and runs the whole scale from grave to gay, with such especial emphasis on the note of humor that all lovers of a good laugh have come to look upon OSMOPOLITAN as peculiarly their magazine. Its continued stories are invariably by master novelists, full of color, packed with movement, breathless in interest—the "novels of the year."

Q OSMOPOLITAN is famous for its cover designs—the most striking on the newsstands, month after month. Its illustrations are the best work of the greatest magazine artists, and its monthly series of theatrical portraits, always uniquely presented, is one of its most perennially popular features. In poetry, it has published some of the most notable work of recent years. Its trenchant, critical articles and briefer notes on literary folk and phrases are, without exception, the ablest in magazines.

Q All in all, OSMOPOLITAN is the most universally interesting, the most sanely all-round magazine of them all—and at the same time the most refreshingly individual. Wherever anything is read, OSMOPOLITAN will be read with delight.

Q As an advertising medium, OSMOPOLITAN is among the greatest of the great. Just now it is riding the crest of the wave. In volume of advertising it has stood first among all the popular monthly magazines twice during the last few months. Its February number not only headed the list in its class, but showed the greatest gain in advertising of all the monthlies over the corresponding issue a year ago—namely, 30 pages. Its April number—out March 1st—carries more net cash advertising than any previous number in the history of the magazine. And this in spite of our firm conviction that the pre-panic numbers established a high-water mark that would not soon be touched again. "OSMOPOLITAN—ward the Empire of Advertising Takes Its Way."

Conviction is growing that the Crescent road and bridges must be promptly repaired to escape accident and business disaster, and who cries economy to prevent the work is not totting fair with the city from which he must derive his bread and butter.

Many of our citizens are drifting towards Bright's disease by neglecting symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble, which Foley's Kidney Remedy will quickly cure. O. T. Erhart.

Mean People

Henry Russell, the head of the Boston opera, was describing his former tour in search of talent.

"They were mean people," he said of the singers of a certain city. "I could do no business with them. They thought only of money."

Mr. Russell smiled.

"They were as bad as the man who discovered the Blank theater fire."

"The first intimation the box office had of this fire came at the end of the third act, from a fat man who bounded down the gallery stairs, and shouted breathlessly:

"Theater's afire! Gimme me money back!"—Washington Star.

A Distinction

YOU'LL FIND IT'S TRUE

It's hardly possible for you to look over the want ads without being reminded of some way in which they can be of great benefit to you.

Every day some hundreds of people scan the Tribune wants looking for used articles for sale, for exchange or for rent. They want pianos, launches, autos, cameras, fishing tackle, books, guns, horses, furniture and so on through an almost endless list.

A few lines of type costing you only a few pennies will tell all these people what you have and will turn things no longer of use to you into "quick cash."

DENIES DAUGHTER ENDED OWN LIFE

MRS. D. G. PHELPS SAYS MRS. LAMBERT DIED OF HEART FAILURE AT ST. PAUL

Mrs. D. G. Phelps, 609 La Crosse street, yesterday received word from St. Paul that her daughter, Mrs. Bertha Lambert, had expired suddenly at the City hospital at that place of heart failure.
A story that the young lady had committed suicide by taking an overdose of morphine was strenuously denied by Mrs. Phelps. In an interview this morning she said that the entire story was false. Her daughter had been walking along one of the streets in St. Paul, and at the corner of Seventh and Roberts streets she suddenly dropped to the ground. Bystanders picked her up in an unconscious condition and had her taken to the City hospital, where she died soon after without becoming conscious. Her parents at La Crosse were immediately notified and Mr. Phelps left last night for St. Paul. The body of the young lady was interred in the Catholic cemetery there this afternoon.

The deceased had been married about three years, but had complained of nothing, and Mrs. Phelps asserted that the story was nothing but a fabrication. Mrs. Lambert and her husband had lived in St. Paul about three weeks, coming there from Grand Forks.

BOLD HOLDUP AND MURDER

IOWA MAN IS SHOT AND KILLED ON GREAT WESTERN TRAIN —SLAYERS ESCAPE

HAMPTON, Minn., June 1. — A holdup and murder took place at the Great Western tracks here about 2 o'clock yesterday morning.

Joe and S. B. Rood, who were riding on a freight train, were held up as the train was about to slow down for this station.

Two men came on the oil car, on which they were riding, and covered them with revolvers. As Joe Rood was slow in getting his hands up when ordered to do so, the assailants shot him twice, once in the head and again in the body, after which they kicked him off the moving car. They got about $15 from his brother.

S. B. Rood came to the station here for help, and the wounded man was brought to town, and died at 9:15 yesterday morning. He will be taken back to his home at Newhall, Iowa, for burial.

The hold-up men made their escape.

LOST DAUGHTER IS NOW MARRIED WOMAN

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 1.—George Tappan of Rochester, Minn., has been in St. Paul for three days in search for his daughter, Mildred, 17 years old, who left her home in Rochester for St. Paul, and has not been found since.

Sunday afternoon Tappan was informed by his wife at Rochester that her daughter telephoned home from an unknown address in Minneapolis that she had been married. The girl said that she had run away with a Rochester man. No marriage licenses have been issued in the Twin Cities to Mildred Tappan, and it is believed that she was married under an assumed name.

Tappan was looking for his daughter and her sudden husband, with the intention of putting them in the hands of the law.

BANK ROBBER LOSES APPENDIX

WHILE REMOVING BULLET, SURGEONS FIND APPENDICITIS

BANDIT WILL NOW RECOVER

Posse Has Abandoned Hope of Capturing Other Two. Returned to Merrill Yesterday

MERRILL, Wis., June 1.—The posse, headed by Chief of Police Calder, who were pursuing the two escaped bandits, have returned to the city, being unable to locate them, although for a time they were close on their trail.

Night Chief Welch of Grand Rapids brought up a suspect by the name of Cartwright, who answered the description of the bandit, but it was found that he was not one of the gang.

John Laya, the wounded bandit, who is in the hospital, is gaining and will recover.

A curious incident of the operation on Laya was the fact that he had appendicitis and his appendix was removed.

It has been found that Laya has a married sister at Heiman Wis., where the bandits first landed when they arrived from Chicago, and it is thought some Russians in that locality have had a hand in planning the holdup.

The mother and sister of Laya arrived from Chicago today and visited him at the hospital.

Martin Krigbos, the other captured bandit, still refuses to talk. He can speak four different languages.

DIETZ HAS AUCTION; WILL SELL HIS LOGS

EAU CLAIRE, June 1.—John F. Dietz, defender of Cameron dam on the Thornapple river, has posted notices in various places advertising that on June 10 he will sell at auction 1,800 white pine logs to satisfy a claim of $5,000 for damage to his property caused by the logs lying on his land.

The logs are what is left of several million feet of logs held up at Cameron dam several years ago by Dietz and which the Chippewa Log and Boom company has been trying to get away ever since but Dietz's trusty rifle kept them away.

The balance of the logs has been hauled away the past two winters and floated down the Flambeau and Chippewa to Chippewa Falls.

COTTON TELLS OF THE NEW NORMAL SCHOOL

heating, lighting and ventilation being as nearly perfect as science can make them. There is not a better building in the country for normal school and college work.

Advantages of Living Here.

La Crosse is a city of splendid homes and many good churches. It has fine Young Men's and Young Women's Christian associations with all modern equipments, under the most progressive and up-to-date management. The city also has a good public library, free to students. It is, in short, a strictly modern city of great beauty and healthfulness, an ideal location for such a school.

Rooms and Board.

Arrangements are being made for the accommodation of the students in some of the best homes in the vicinity of the normal school. This is no small advantage to the young people as well as a satisfaction to the parents. The locating of pupils will be under the direct supervision of the school authorities. Board at reasonable rates will be provided in private homes, or at a still lower cost, in good clubs.

The School Itself—the Faculty.

Realizing that after all the strength of its teaching force measures the real usefulness of the school, no time and money have been spared to secure for the state normal school a strong faculty—men and women not merely well equipped by scholarship and experience to do a high grade of school work, but men and women of broad outlook, whose lives will be an inspiration to the young people under their care. Parents may rest assured that the atmosphere of the school will be the best, morally as well as educationally.

Courses of Instruction.

The following courses will be offered:

1. An elementary course—two and one-half years, for common school graduates. Completion of this course gives the student a one-year license which, when countersigned, becomes a five-year license.

2. A two-year English course for high school graduates. Completion of this course gives the student a one-year license which, when countersigned, becomes a life license.

3. A four-year English course, for common school graduates. Completion of this course gives the student a one-year license, which, when countersigned, becomes a life license.

4. A two-year Latin or German course, for high school graduates. Completion of this course carries the life license feature also.

5. A four-year Latin or German course leading to life license.

6. A two-year college course for high school graduates. This course prepares students for teaching in the grades and high schools and also entitles the graduates to junior standing in the colleges and university. This should be an especially attractive feature of the school to all—high school graduates, and to teachers and others in this section of the state who contemplate a thorough preparation for teaching in the high schools of Wisconsin. Most welcome to the young men and women of La Crosse and vicinity will be this opportunity of two years' college training. This course leads to life license also.

7. A two-year country school course, for common school and high school graduates, for the training of teachers for the country schools. This is an unusually important course. It carries the license feature also.

Music and Drawing. The school will offer strong courses in music and drawing, in charge of teachers of broad training and successful experience.

Departments of Industrial Training. A special effort will be made along the lines of industrial education, including work in manual training, agriculture, domestic science, kindergarten, etc. Strong courses are being provided in all these departments.

Library. We will be fortunate in starting out with a large, well lighted, commodious library of well selected books—a good working library of general references and professional books. This is to be in charge of an experienced librarian with splendid training.

Model, or Teacher Training School. One very valuable feature of a good state normal school which differentiates it from all other schools teaching many of the same subjects, is the model or teacher training school. This is the pedagogical laboratory of the normal school. It is the department in which theory and practice ought to wed most happily. It bears the same relation to the state normal school as the Moot Court bears to the law school of today, or clinics to the school of medicine, or the experiment station to a great college of agriculture.

Its aim is to provide observation and actual practice for student-teachers. These will be given charge of rooms and be made responsible for lesson assignments, teaching government, etc. In fact, these student-teachers will do regular schoolroom teaching and managing under the direction of the critic teachers and supervisor of practice. The work in theory will be put into practice under the best possible condition.

The model school includes work from the kindergarten to and including the 8th grade and will accommodate about forty-five children in the kindergarten department and one hundred twenty to one hundred sixty in the grades.

When the parents having children within reach of such a school once learn the advantages offered by it, there are always more applications for places than the school can afford. One such school last year had nearly one hundred requests for places in a class that could admit but twenty new pupils.

Advantages to the Children.

Some of the advantages to the children in a training school are: First, teachers are chosen with reference to their scholarship, their professional training, and their fitness to do, with skill, the specific line of work. Unfortunately, in public schools it sometimes happens that other less worthy factors help to determine appointments.

Second, splendid material equipment—laboratories, libraries, maps, charts and other supplies with buildings and rooms constructed on sanitary principles properly heated, lighted and ventilated, and most often artistically adorned.

Third, and perhaps most important, the daily presentation of lessons in light of such principles as the whole professional department and atmosphere of the state normal school may bring to bear upon the practice work of the training school.

The critic teachers understand that any lesson is apt to be observed both by the student-teachers and by the supervisors of practice, and that it is open to criticism—unfavorable, if deserved. Such conditions put teachers, whether the regular critic teachers or the student-teachers, upon their mettle. They insure the most thoughtful and careful planning, assignment, and presentation of lessons every day. The children therefore get the benefit of this eternal vigilance and high-water mark of effort on the teacher's part. Members of the faculty of a normal school are quick to appreciate the value of such conditions for their own children and always have them enrolled in the training school if circumstances will permit it at all.

Advantages to the Student-Teachers

To the student-teachers the work in the training school is no less important than it is to the children. They do not always recognize its value while receiving its benefits; but a lapse of years and increased experience in meeting and solving the problems of the school, particularly those of the recitation, bring added respect for the training school and its service. Many a young teacher without special training teaches for years without making a study of her own teaching process. The problems of the recitation and the nature of her assignments are not objects of concern to her. The questions, "How?" and "Why?" do not occur to her in time to make the teaching most fruitful. But the training school helps the student-teacher in just these respects. It helps her to get an answer to the prayer of Robert Burns.

"O wad some power the giftie gie us,

To see oursel's as ithers see us;

It would frae many a blunder and

No young teacher can spend three months or six months in teaching under daily sympathetic but critical supervision, in writing out lesson plans for inspection; in thinking out the purpose, the subject-matter and a careful assignment of each lesson; to say nothing of determining in advance the leading devices that may be used profitably—no teacher can do this for months as a requirement without making a part of it a habit and become convinced that most of it deserves to be done as a duty even

Need Special Training

Such training is valuable, not only for teachers in the grades and in the districts, but for those in the high schools as well. The poorest teaching in our system of education is in our high schools and colleges, due largely to the efforts of inexperienced college graduates without special preparation or training for the work. The time once was when it was thought that anybody could farm and anybody can; but it is known that only scientific farming pays. Anybody can teach Latin or science or mathematics in a high school or college, if he knows enough of these subjects; but in the teaching of them as of the subjects belonging to the grades, the largest dividends are realized only when the teaching is done in the light of sound pedagogical principles. Recognizing this truth, the state normal school is but doing its obvious duty in providing opportunity in its training school department for its practice-schools who incline towards high school teaching to become skillful and artistic in the application of pedagogical principles in a teaching of the subjects when they take up high school work.

The Gymnasium

Physical education is not to be neglected in the state normal school at La Crosse. We have a large, well equipped gymnasium, and a physical director. All students are expected to take at least certain phases of work in physical culture.
